About this Manual

The GC3 Branding Guide provides information about the process of branding the GC3 Web interface. The term “branding” refers to the practice of customizing images and Web interface themes to more closely reflect a company’s brand.

This document is intended to provide detailed information about the process of branding the GC3 Web interface. It is intended specifically to assist Web developers at client sites. However, this guide may also prove useful for internal (G-Log) audiences who wish to gain a greater understanding of the GC3 branding process.

The GC3 Branding Guide is organized into these areas:

- GC3 Branding Overview – Provides a definition of GC3 branding, an explanation of GC3 Web page technology, and a description of brandable vs. non-brandable application features.
- Branding Technology – Provides high-level descriptions of XML (extensible markup language), XSL (extensible stylesheet language), and CSS (cascading style sheet) technologies.
- Requirements – Lists the necessary software and customizable documents for beginning the branding process.
- Recommended Branding Skill Set – Lists the skill set for Branding Developers.
- Themes - Provides step-by-step instructions for creating, customizing, and applying GC3 Web interface themes. Includes sub-sections that illustrate the CSS for each of the three Web interface themes shipped with GC3, and sub-sections that illustrate the XSL for each of the three Web interface themes shipped with GC3.
- Images - Provides instructions for customizing the images shipped with GC3, along with seven image galleries showing the different types of application images organized by category.
- Re-branding – Provides instructions for re-branding the Web interface after applying a new software patch.

1. Branding Overview

As it relates to GC3, the term “branding” refers to the process of changing the look and feel of the application to reflect the client’s brand. GC3 is shipped with customizable images and Web interface themes, which gives you the ability to easily change colors and logos viewed on GC3 Web pages. For example, clients can use their own logos to replace the default G-Log and GC3 logos throughout the application.

Branding helps you to develop a strong awareness for your trade name, product, or services. The ability to brand GC3 is also beneficial for those businesses that plan to distribute the GC3 product.

GC3 Web Page Technology

GC3 Web interface themes are separate from the structure and function of GC3, independent of the business logic of the GC3 user interface. Extensible markup language (XML) defines the structure of GC3. Java describes the behavior of the GC3 application. CSS combined with extensible style sheet language (XSL) defines the coherent look and feel of GC3.

By changing the CSS or XSL files, or pointing to a different set of files, you can change the look of GC3 without affecting the underlying structure or functionality.

Brandable vs. Non-brandable Application Features

Specifically, you have the ability to change button images, logos, color schemes, and font sizes and colors viewed throughout the GC3 Web application. To a lesser extent, you may also change the layout of some GC3 screens, though this aspect of branding is handled through the Menu Manager feature within GC3.

Branding does not include the ability to add, rename, or delete fields in GC3. It also does not include the ability to move, rename, or rearrange sections of GC3 pages.

GC3 Version 5.0 contains new menu icons for the twelve (12) module areas. (Order Management, Transportation Planning and Execution etc.). These icons cannot be branded or exchanged.

2. Branding Technology

GC3 Web pages are constructed using XML to provide structure, and XSL and CSS files to define the look. This section gives you a high-level overview of XML, XSL, and CSS technologies. If you require more information, please refer to the Appendix III – Additional Resources section of this guide.

Extensible Markup Language (XML)

XML is an open standard for describing data, as defined by the World Wide Web Consortium (W3C). XML is used for defining data elements on a Web page and business-to-business documents. It uses a similar tag structure as HTML; however, where HTML defines how elements are displayed, XML defines what those elements contain.

HTML uses predefined tags, but XML allows page developers to define the tags. Therefore, virtually any data items (for example, product and amount due) can be identified, allowing Web pages to function much like database records.

Extensible Stylesheet Language (XSL)

XSL is a style sheet format for XML documents. XSL is the XML counterpart to the CSS language in HTML, although XML supports CSS1 and CSS2. XSL Transformations (XSLT) are extensions to XSL for converting XML documents into XML or other document types and may be used independently of XSL.

Unlike HTML, element names in XML have no intrinsic presentation semantics. Without a style sheet, a processor could not know how to render the content of an XML document, other than as an undifferentiated string of characters. XSL provides a comprehensive model and a vocabulary for writing such style sheets using XML syntax.

Cascading Style Sheets (CSS)

CSS is the style sheet format that provides layout settings that can be applied to Web pages. Any structured document format can use CSS; XML is just one example of where CSS can be applied.

CSS2 (Version 2.0) is the style sheet format supported for XML; GC3 uses this style sheet format.

3. Requirements

In addition to the required software and documents listed in this chapter, you should have a GC3 test environment available in order to test your customizations.

Required Software

You must have access to the following items prior to beginning the GC3 branding process:

- Adobe PhotoShop, Version 7.0 (or above)
- A text editor (HomeSite is recommended)
- It is recommended that you have a file compare utility.

Recommended Branding Skill Set

It is recommended that the branding developer have thorough knowledge of DHTML/HTML/CSS and Javascript, as well as experience with XML/XSL.

The branding developer should have experience/understanding of graphical user interfaces, as well as experience developing graphical content.

An understanding of the following applications is recommended:

- IE 6.0 SP1 or later
- WebLogic 8.1 SP3
- Oracle 9.2.0.6
- Apache 2.0.53
- Tomcat 5.5.8

Required Documents

The required documents are available on your GC3 Web Server under `<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/`.

The following documents are needed in order to create a theme:

- `/xsl/themes/themes.xsl` - This document calls to the theme to be presented. By simply importing a specified theme, the user will be presented with a new look and feel.
- `/xsl/themes/themestechnoblue.xsl` - This document contains links to all of the CSS (Cascading Style Sheets) used throughout the theme. It also contains references to every image used throughout the Web interface.
(Previous versions used `/xsl/themes/themesgc3.xsl`)
- `/css/themes/themestechnoblue.css` - This document defines the theme's color and font usage.
(Previous versions used `/css/themes/themesgc3.css`)
- `/images/themes/themestechnoblue` - This directory contains all of the images used throughout the theme (themestechnoblue contains images for the GC3 Theme, and so on).
(Previous versions used `/images/themes/themesgc3`)

Brandable Screens

Changes to ProblemCount.xsl, usermenu.xsl, footer.xsl and body.xsl should be saved in a your client specific directory location. See User Preference – Stylesheet location. This allows client maintained files not to be overwritten with each service release.

Changes to login.xsl and logout.xsl must be saved and reapplied after each service release. The login.xsl and logout.xsl do not use the User Preference – Stylesheet location value as there is no valid user logged in at this point.

`/xsl/umt/login.xsl`

`/xsl/umt/logout.xsl`

4. Themes

A GC3 “theme” is a specific color scheme for the application. This section explains how you create and customize themes, along with the XSL and CSS for each theme shipped with GC3. Depending on your needs, you can brand across all accounts, limit to certain roles, domains or users.

Note: During the development process to enable the XSL interpreter to load changed XSL files without stopping and restarting the webserver, set the property `glog.webserver.xsl.debug=true` in your `glog.properties` file.

The required documents are available on your GC3 Web Server under `<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/`.

Creating Themes for a GC3 Web Server

GC3 ships with a standard theme that is imported in the xsl file /xsl/themes/themes.xsl. To facilitate the ability to override the standard GC3 theme a user preference "Stylesheet Location" has been added. See GC3 help for more information on how to assign User Preferences to users.

UserPreference – Stylesheet Location

User Preferences 1 of 1 new finished

*User Preference ID	Domain Name
EXAMPLE	MIKEE
*Name	*Value
Stylesheet Location	client199
save
edit delete

The value entered for the "Stylesheet Location" is used to resolve the XSL files location. The XSL file location is resolved by the following search:

If the user does not have a "Stylesheet Location" defined the default GC3 version is used.

If the user has a "Stylesheet Location" defined:

Look for the XSL file <gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/xsl/{Stylesheet Location value}/{XSL file requested}

If not found try the parent directory of the Stylesheet Location value until either the XSL file is found or use the default GC3 version. Note: The Stylesheet Location value can contain a directory hierarchy to support multiple themes for different user preferences.

An example:

Stylesheet Location value is client199/vendor this location contains the XSL file <gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/xsl/client199/vendor/themes/themes.xsl only.

XSL file to resolve themes/themes.xsl

This file is found at the first search location <gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/xsl/client199/vendor/themes/themes.xsl

This file has been modified to import themes/themestechblue.xsl. The following is the search that is done:

<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/xsl/client199/vendor/themes/themestechblue.xsl ... not found.

<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/xsl/client199/themes/themestechblue.xsl ... not found.

<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/xsl/themes/themestechblue.xsl ... found in the default GC3 location.

The UserPreference - Stylesheet Location value should have the first directory value set to the client ID that is assigned by GLOG. This will guarantee any custom work provided by GLOG for a client will be found correctly along with any client changes.

Note: The client ID will be needed to install any service releases. For the initial release (v4.0) contact GLOG for you client ID if you are implementing your own branding changes before the first service release.

A new XSL variable (clientDirectory) is provided in comm/StdWidgets.xsl that will return the base directory (client ID).

Examples:

When defining a XSL variable for new images:

<xsl:variable name="butleft_img"><xsl:value-of select="$glogUrlPrefix"/>/images/<xsl:value-of select="$clientDirectory"/>themes/themesmycompany/arrowright.gif</xsl:variable>

If you need to define a href for a client implemented javascript file:

<script language="javascript" type="text/javascript" src="{ $glogUrlPrefix }/js/{ $clientDirectory }problemcount/additional.js"/>

Create a Theme

To create a theme:

Copy /xsl/themes/themes.xsl (for example, /xsl/{client ID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themes.xsl).

Copy and rename /xsl/themes/themestechblue.xsl (for example, /xsl/{client ID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themesmycompany.xsl).

1. Copy and rename /css/themes/themestechblue.css (for example, /css/{client ID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themesmycompany.css).
2. Create a new image subdirectory /images/{client ID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themesmycompany.
3. Add the new theme by importing it into /xsl/{client ID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themes.xsl <xsl:import href="file:themes/themesmycompany.xsl"/>.

4. In `/xsl/{client ID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themesmycompany.xml`, change the

<xsl:template name="css">
  <link rel="styleSheet" type="text/css">
    <xsl:attribute name="href"> <xsl:value-of select="$glogUrlPrefix"/>/css/<xsl:valu e-of select="$clientDirectory"/>/themes<xsl:
        value-of select="translator:get-translated-
        value('css.root_dir')"/>themesmycompany
        .css

reference to your CSS file to match the one you created above. For example, after your change, the file could read:

Creating Themes for a Locale

GC3 allows for branding of certain attributes based on locale (language and country). CSS files can be created for each locale, adjusting for font styles and sizes, as well as color preferences. For example, you might want to brand by locale to add more space for double-byte languages like Chinese.

Double-byte Character Sets

Because double-byte character sets (ideographs like in Chinese) consists of much more details than normal ASCII characters, you need to adapt your stylesheets. GC3 ships with a `gc3themes.css` file adapted to Chinese. It is located in: `/css/zh/themes/`. Changes include:

- font-weight: change from bold to normal
- line-height: change to at least 16
- font-size: change to at least 12

If you create your own customized stylesheets and plan to use them with double-byte character sets, you need to make the same kind of changes to your Chinese style sheet.

Apply Branding Based On Locale

To implement internationalized branding:

1. Log in to GC3 as DBA.ADMIN.
2. Go to the translation manager and search for the Translation ID "css.root_dir". Learn more about the translation manager in the online help.
3. Edit the `css.root_dir` record you found.
4. Add a language, country, and domain name as required for what you want to brand. For example, if you want to create a webserver wide CSS stylesheet for Chinese, add Chinese as language, China as Country, and * as domain name. The country code is optional, since many countries have a national language.

Note: If your language is not listed, contact G-Log Support for help.

5. As text enter `/DIR/` where DIR will be the directory in which you will place the localized CSS files. A good naming convention would be to use the LANGUAGE_COUNTRY of the file you are editing. Examples: `fr_CA` is French Canadian, `zh` is Chinese.
6. Click save.

7. Click finished.
5. In `<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/css/{client ID or client ID/subdirectory}/themes/`, create a directory with the same name you entered in `css.root.dir`.
6. Copy your default themes directory including all CSS file to `<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/css/{client ID or client ID/subdirectory}/themes/<DIR>/`.
7. Edit the file to create the new, branded look.
8. Test your locale specific theme by logging into GC3 and setting your user preferences to the country and language you have branded for. See the online help for more information on how to do this. Your new look and feel should be visible after pressing the reload button in your browser.

Translations

You may wish to change some translations in the GC3 System. For example, you can update "GC3" to "My Company Name".

If you only want to make a few changes, you can use the Label Manager in GC3 (Configuration and Administration>User Configuration>Label Manager).

Note: This feature is only available to users who are logged in as administrators.

If you need to change large amounts of phrases in GC3, consider using CSV files to upload your changes to the TRANSLATION_D table in the database.

Customizing Themes

Colors and fonts used throughout GC3 are defined through the use of cascading style sheets (CSS). For an example of what the CSS files look like see page 4-7.

To customize a theme:

1. Open new theme CSS document `/xsl/{client ID or client ID/subdirectory}/themes/themesmycompany.css`
2. Make adjustments as required and save.

Applying Themes

GC3 ships with these configurable themes. You can review the XSL for each theme in XSL for Themes:

- Themesgc3
- Themessilver
- Themesred
- Themestechnoblue
- Themestechnogreen
- Themestechnorange
- Themesmetalblue
- Themesmetalgreen
- Themesmetalpurple
- Themesmetalred

To apply a theme:

1. Copy /xsl/themes/themes.xsl to /xsl/{client ID or client ID/subdirectory}/themes/themes.xsl.
2. Replace this line `<xsl:import href="file:themes/themestechnoblue.xsl"/>` with one of the following lines:

<xsl:import href="file:themes/themesred.xsl"/>

<xsl:import href="file:themes/themessilver.xsl"/>

Or, add your custom theme name.

<xsl:import href="file:themes/themesmycompany.xsl"/>

CSS for Themes

How the CSS file changes the appearance of a component

The CSS file for a theme divides the visual display of a component into several sections, as shown below

5. Chapter 5 - Branding Other Parts of GC3

You can brand certain other parts of GC3, parts that are not made up of web pages.

Reports

GC3 comes with a set of pre-defined reports. They all contain a G-Log logo. To exchange the logo that appears on all reports that ship with GC3, follow these steps:

1. Log on to your report server.
2. CD to the directory holding your reports.
3. Exchange `report_logo.gif` with your own file.

Note: The file name must remain the same.

If you need to customize reports that appear in GC3, look for Create User-Defined Reports in GC3 online help.

Emails

All emails contain a G-Log logo. If all you want to do is change the logo that appears in all these emails, follow these steps:

1. Copy your new logo to your GC3 Web Server under `<gc3_install_dir>/apache/htdocs/images/mail`.
2. Open your `glog.appserver.properties` file for editing.
3. Add the property `glog.mail.logo.filename=<logoFileName.gif>`.
4. Add the property `glog.mail.logo.height=<height of image in pixels>`.

GC3 stretches you image to this height.

5. Add the property `glog.mail.logo.width=<width of image in pixels >`.

GC3 stretches you image to this width.

Note: You might want to keep your new logo at the same or similar size as the original G-Log logo of 96 pixels wide x 62 pixels high.

Your changes take effect the next time you restart GC3.

6. Images

You may choose to add your own images, or use the Adobe Photoshop image templates to create images that fit accurately into the size and shape of the application. Adobe Photoshop files are located in the following directory on your GC3 Web Server: `<gc3_install_dir>/install/branding/psd/`.

Updating Images within Themes

To update images within themes:

1. Save the image to the theme's image subdirectory (for example, `/images/{clientID or clientID/subdirectory}/themes/themesmycompany/`).

Update the path to the images directory within the `themesmycompany.xml` document (for example, `<xsl:variable name="butleft_img"><xsl:value-of select="$glogUrlPrefix"/>/images/<xsl:value-of select="$clientDirectory"/>themes/themesmycompany/arrowright.gif</xsl:variable>`)

New Images for 5.0

Examples of new images used throughout the GC3 application are included below. Please see Chapter 5 XSL for Themes and Image Examples for complete details.

Side navigation icons are fixed and are not brandable.

Icons exist for the 12 module areas.

home_img

`images/themes/themestechblue/nav_wheel_lg.jpg (/xsl/body.xml)`

`nav_wheel_sm_img (/xsl/footer.xml)`

7. Re-branding

When G-Log releases a software patch, you must download the patch and apply it to the appropriate site.

Note: This process updates GC3, but replaces client-branded files (that are not controlled by User Preference – Stylesheet Location) with the standard GC3 files. Therefore, you must upload your branded/re-branded files to the site after the patch is applied.
This applies to the login.xsl, logout.xsl and report_logo.gif.

You may want to create a sub-directory to copy your branded files to before the patch application. Once the patch is applied, you can quickly re-apply the branded files to the newly patched application.

FTP Instructions

1. FTP to your URL (for example, gc3-XX.glog.com – where XX is your company's ID) using any FTP client.
2. Log onto GC3 as glogXX. (Replace XX with your company's ID.)
3. Enter your password. This places you in the Web server directory.
4. Type "cd htdocs", then press Enter to change directories and access the webroot directory where the Web files exist.
5. Replace/update the files necessary for your branding.

Once a file is uploaded to the Web server the changes will take effect immediately.
